NOTE FOR: Mr. Knoche

SUBJECT: Proposed Letter to Ben Buffham Regarding
Assignment of an NSA Officer to the Information
Science Center

1. Per your request, the attached note from Harry Fitzwater provides information on the importance of ISC and whether it is worth it to ask NSA to reconsider their decision not to provide an officer for the Center.

- a. A new course (50 hours in length) has been developed, primarily at the request of DIA, which will run seven times in FY 1977 and 10-15 times in FY 78.
- b. The loss of the NSA person would require a cutback in certain areas.
- c. With the introduction of other new courses, Community personnel in information science training will exceed the number of Agency personnel.
- d. NSA officer is important if the concept of a Community center is to continue.

2. I recommend you sign the letter to Buffham.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Deputy Director of Central Intelligence

FROM: John F. Blake
Deputy Director for Administration

SUBJECT: Assignment of National Security Agency
Officer to Office of Training Information
Science Center

1. At the present time, the Office of Training (OTR) has one Defense Intelligence Agency, one National Security Agency (NSA), and seven Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) professionals assigned to the Information Science Center training activity. About 50% of our students are from Intelligence Community organizations, exclusive of CIA. CIA receives no budgetary support from any of the user agencies.

2. The National Cryptologic School, last November, informed OTR that it was unable to supply an NSA officer to the Information Science Center after June 1977. We were offered an option of using some instructors part time from a component of the National Cryptologic School. We have studied this alternative and conclude that we need someone here to help plan, administer, and make presentations in all of our courses and to prepare course materials. This cannot be done under the terms of their offer.

3. NSA's decision to withdraw from the staffing of the Information Science Center represents a degradation of the notion that the Center is truly a Community effort.

4. We recommend you send the attached letter to Mr. Benson K. Buffham, Deputy Director, NSA, who was involved in the original discussions regarding Community staffing of the Information Science Center and who, we understand, made the original NSA commitment to provide an instructor.

Dear Mr. Buffham:

STATINTL

STATINTL The National Security Agency (NSA) has assigned an officer on a full-time basis to the Information Science Center (ISC) since its inception seven years ago: initially [REDACTED] and currently [REDACTED]. They have served a critical role in assuring that the quantitative methodologies for analysis and management presented at the ISC have appropriately reflected NSA interests. Their presence and participation as lecturers, along with a Defense Intelligence Agency officer assigned to the Center, has also been valuable in demonstrating the Community nature of the Center's training program. Of the 1158 students who have attended the Center's courses, about 18% have been NSA employees.

In November 1976, the Commandant of the National Cryptologic School informed us that this assignment would not be continued, but that substantive support would continue from another part of the National Cryptologic School, beginning this summer. After analyzing this proposal in some detail, and considering the increasing enrollment in our courses, I do not feel that the alternative to a detailee will help us appreciably.

I would very much appreciate your reconsidering the matter of continuing the practice of detailing an NSA officer to the ISC so that we can continue to provide adequate training to Community personnel in the field of information science training.

Faithfully yours,

E. H. Knoche
